

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Chief John McFarland took an early morning automobile ride Wednesday as a sort of guardian angel for Walter Danielson, a twelve year old Roxbury boy, who was on route to his home after a brief venture on the big job of seeing the world.

Walter was picked up here Tuesday afternoon by Chief McFarland and took an apparently faithful story of how he had left Boston last Friday with an older boy who deserted him at Bridgeport, to which city they made their way. They managed to get free rides on trucks and in other motor vehicles to help them over many miles of the distance they traveled.

Walter finally worked his way back to New London and then to Danielson. Chief McFarland located the boy's father, who is an insurance man in Boston, through the aid of the police of that city and informed him that Walter was being held here. The father agreed with the chief's idea that it would be a good plan to send Walter into Boston on the boat train Wednesday morning and to the chief's suggestion that the father have some one at the South Station to meet Walter the father significantly remarked: "I'll be there myself."

Accordingly, Chief McFarland, fearing that Walter might get confused in changing trains at Putnam, started out of here before 6 o'clock Wednesday morning and put Walter aboard the train and in charge of the conductor at Putnam. Walter's father has promised to pay the transportation bill, which was met by the chief.

While here Walter was kept at Chief McFarland's home. He said Tuesday evening that he wished his father would come for him, but on second thought decided that it would be better if their meeting was postponed as long as possible, for the child's safety, as the child might be kidnapped and taken to some other place.

Like many other towns in Connecticut, Danielson is being lobbied by canvassers for magazine subscriptions. The canvassers' experiences in the past with canvassers who have not been fully authorized to solicit money and take payment for subscriptions for different publications has created a demand that all such canvassers establish their standing.

Eaton's Brings Relief

"I have been awful sick with gas," writes Mrs. W. H. Person, "and Eaton's is all I can get to give me relief."

Acidity and gas on the stomach quickly taken up and carried out by Eaton's, then appetite and strength come back. And many other bodily miseries disappear when the stomach is right. Don't let sourness, belching, bloating, indigestion and other stomach ills go on. Take Eaton's tablets after you eat—see how much better you feel. Big box costs only a trifle with your druggist's guarantee.

ing and the legitimacy of their work before being allowed to work here. It has been suggested that canvassers for subscriptions get approval cards from the Chamber of Commerce, as has been arranged in Norwich, before being allowed to solicit here. Only recently, Danielson was visited by canvassers who were of uncertain standing and those who paid them money are still waiting for the publication for which they subscribed.

To the general public the earnings are again limited to the use of fireworks and other explosives in observing the Fourth in Danielson. The limitations are the same as in recent years. Recklessness in the use of firearms will be promptly set down, for it is felt in official circles that all can have a good time without indulging in dangerous practices.

It is not anticipated that the "night boys" be particularly noisy in Danielson, although every precaution will be taken to curb those who would indulge in unduly noisy demonstrations.

The recent warning by the post office that use of explosives purchased for the Fourth must cease until 4 a. m. of the holiday has had a good effect.

A large number from Danielson were at Roseland park on Wednesday to attend the United Sunday school picnic of the Congregational and Methodist churches. The trip to the park was made in motor vehicles. At Roseland the day was pleasantly spent in the usual diversions. The party returned here early in the evening.

Employees of the state highway department were engaged during Wednesday in filling with asphaltic ruins that have become worn parallel with the trolley rails in Main street. These little ruins were bothersome to traffic, especially to horse-drawn vehicles.

It is stated on the authority of a competent observer that not more than 25 per cent. of the people of Danielson now do baking at home, though the percentage is higher at this time of year than during the cooler months. Three-quarters of the families of the borough buy "ready-made" bread. The supply comes from local bakeries and from outside concerns that run motor trucks here from points as far away as Providence.

Business houses here anticipate an improvement of business as a result of the resumption of operations at the Good-year mills next week. Good-year has been a big trading asset to Danielson, especially during the period when the payroll there was approximately $1,000,000 annually. With one shift working Good-year will pay out a big sum of money each week and much of this will find its way into local trade channels.

A week from today (Thursday) brings the first of the half holidays for the forces of business houses in Danielson. The stores will close at noon and remain closed for the day. In connection with the coming of the half-holiday, which will occur on Thursdays during July and August, a number of business houses will offer special inducements for those who come out to trade Thursday mornings.

The first six months of 1921 that end with today have been more or less unprofitable for the manufacturing concerns of Killingly. It has been a period of readjustment and of effort to stabilize the textile business. Representatives of practically all of the mills, though there are exceptions, say that there has been little or no profit in manufacturing and quantities of goods that have been made up have been sold at a loss. The market for cloth has been decidedly unsettled and uncertain at times—much of the time—there has been what the mill men call the "suction" style, which means that a prospective buyer makes any kind of an offer for goods, hoping to make a purchase at far below the real value of the materials he seeks. Bids at times have been upon the auction style, raised a fraction of a cent at a time with a view to fixing a new low sale price. This condition has left the textile industry upset.

Notwithstanding that some of the manufacturers claim not to be making a cent of profit, though some plants operate at full time, it is pointed out that the loss is not so great as though the plants were allowed to stand idle and their organizations allowed to scatter.

As the months go by the untoward conditions that are confronting most of the mills on which Danielson almost entirely depends for its prosperity, are expected to clear up and some of the manufacturers are looking for 1922 to be another boom year.

State C. Howard E. Elliott was in Danielson Wednesday on business relating to the department he represents. Joseph Henry Labonte, who is studying for the priesthood at LaSalle college at Hartford, and his sister, Irene Lora Labonte, student at St. Joseph's convent at North Grotonville, are spending the summer here with their father, Joseph Labonte.

In Danielson Wednesday the temperature again hit the 80 mark, which has been a favorite with the weather man for more than a week.

Thomas McDermott, who for years has been a clerk at the City hotel in Putnam, is coming to Danielson, his former home next week to enter the employ of W. S. Brown at the Attawaugan hotel.

Transportation lines operating in this area will furnish extra service during the holiday period.

While there are many admirers of Carpenter, those who would risk their money on his winning the championship from Dempsey are asking odds. Only small bets are being made here on the outcome of Saturday's match.

Chautauqua entertainers were hustling on Wednesday to fulfill their agreement to appear at the coming of the annual summer attraction.

Frank R. Richardson of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Wednesday.

Manufacturers here will close Saturday at noon for the holiday period resuming operations next Tuesday morning.

Stanley Galinski, who is held to answer in a charge of stealing a car, the property of a North Ashford man, was taken to Brooklyn jail in default.

of bonds on Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Charles R. Ayer.

Through the courtesy of Dennison's, the free demonstration of making paper flowers, hats and many novelties will be continued at Dowe's today and Friday.

Frank Mallhot, who recently resigned his position at Fournier's market, is preparing to engage in a business of his own in Danielson.

Showers during the late hours of Wednesday afternoon brought some relief from the extreme heat to many sections of eastern Windham county.

Arrangements for the returns from the big fight will be made for Danielson fans Saturday.

Mrs. Parker is a frequent visitor here, and at present is associated with Mrs. Walter J. Bartlett in the social morality work of the W. C. T. U.

The game last Sunday with the T. H. Barry company team of Providence considerably shifted the batting averages of members of the Nightingale-Morse team of Putnam. Carey still leads the last, but by a fraction over Benoit who jumps into second place, forcing out L'Heureux. The Putnam boys had an off day at the bat Sunday and consequently there was a slump in average. Benoit, Nelson and Cournoyer were the only players to advance over the previous week. The present standing is as follows:

	AB.	H.	Pc.
Carey	16	6	.375
Benoit	27	10	.370
